BRAMPTON - Peel Regional Police are investigating what they say is an apparent double-murder suicide in a Brampton home.

Police received a call around 10:40 a.m. Sunday for a “premise check” at 99 Hinchley Wood Grove, near Boivard Dr. E. When no one answered, officers broke down the door and found three dead people in the home.

“Somebody was concerned about people from this residence,” said Const. Fiona Thiverge at the scene. “I don’t have names or relationships that are available at this time. What I can tell you is that we’re waiting for the coroner to arrive on scene, and he will do his investigation inside the home with the assistance of our Forensics bureau and that will determine the cause of death, the time of death and then we’ll be able to look at relationships.”

Neighbour Bibi Hamid said it was a couple in their 60s living next door. The husband, who is 61, was from India and his wife Majula lived in England. She described them as “very quiet.”

“I’m surprised something was going on at their house,” Hamid said. “They have two daughters and two grandkids. You don’t hear much coming from their house. They’re friendly people.”

SUN+ said the couple has lived in this neighbourhood for more than 20 years.

“It’s sad, very sad,” she said. “Both of them are so mild-mannered. She worked at a bank and he lost his job a few years ago. They never discussed any of their family problems. They were very happy to be grandparents. You can see that in their faces.”

A reverse 411 search reveals an H. Mistry associated with that address.

Another neighbour Enzo Lavigna said he saw the husband walking with one of his grandchildren the day before the tragic incident.

“Yesterday, I talked to him,” he said. “He told me, ‘My daughter left one (grandchild) with me, because if they are together, they fight.’ They had a wedding here in July.”

Thiverge said it was a family member who “was trying to reach one of those parties and couldn’t reach them and they had some concern for their safety.”
